WANDERING CRC
NOW THE HOME OF A SPECIAL PAINTING

Wandering CRC was the lucky winner of the beautiful painting by Linzi Carter, at the 2026 WA CRC Network Conference. Linzi painted the piece live at the conference on Day 1, and on Day 2 all CRC's were placed in a draw for a chance to win it for their CRC.
Be sure to check out this amazing piece of artwork when you next visit the Wandering CRC. It truly is something special!

Outback Brides
Thank you!

Outback Brides Collection of heritage and vintage gowns and catwalk show was a huge success, enjoyed by many over the Wandering Camp Out & Wandering Fair Weekend 2026.

It was a privilege to work with local brides displaying your gowns and sharing your treasured wedding stories with the community.

Thank you for support from Wandering CWA, the Wandering Fair and the Shire of Wandering for use of the Community Hall & Road Board Building. Also to Janet & Charlie for opening up the Wandering Tavern for a bridal catwalk show like no other!
Collectively we raised $1332.00 for the RFDS.

Thank you to all who volunteered over the weekend assisting with the displays and to our gorgeous models. Special thanks to our local gardeners for providing all the beautiful floral displays which completed the show.

So wonderful Wandering Brides, get your gowns ready, you will make the show, it would be our pleasure, and you are more than welcome.
Here's to a ripper Bridal Trail next year!

Forests and climate can’t speak in Parliament – but you can show up for them.
Mining is running rampant in WA’s South West forests at a time when their protection is more urgent than ever. It is madness and it has to stop. WA needs to ban forest mining.
And while we look down the barrel of a ‘Godzilla-level’ El Niño, Western Australia remains one of the world’s largest fossil fuel exporters and we still don’t have a 2030 emissions reduction target or a climate bill!
On Thursday 19 November, your The Greens (WA) MLC's will be leading a debate on climate and environment in the Legislative Council, and Jess Beckerling will be introducing the Bill to ban mining in WA’s native forests.

Come and fill the public gallery and show this Government that the community is watching – and that we expect action!

WARRIOR WELLBEING ARTICLE

Your Wellbeing – What's Important to You?

BY THE REGIONAL MEN'S HEALTH INITIATIVE
November 2026

There are some great awareness campaigns run throughout the year that aim to raise awareness and put men's health and wellbeing in the spotlight. As important as these campaigns are, it is still up to us as individuals to take time and reflect on our own wellbeing needs and what we need to focus on amongst all our daily activities. We are all busy and the context of our lives differ, so don't forget to put yourself first, it's not being selfish, but an important part of self-preservation!

No matter if we are a farmer, contractor, working in agribusiness, or a community member, we can sometimes forget the little things during these busy times. We all have stress spikes in our lives. Whether we are farmers dealing with seeding and harvest, accountants during tax time, a salesperson during stocktake, or a parent dealing with the never-ending jobs and caring responsibilities.

Most of us just accept that during our stress spikes we need to go hard and work long hours. But it's also important to understand that no one can work 24/7. Even if we think we can, something is going to give. Here are a few simple tips to remember, especially during busy times, around issues that can impact us blokes:

Fatigue is one of the biggest causes of accidents, injuries and deaths, so know your limits. Are we getting enough sleep? We need 7-8 hours. Limit nicotine, caffeine, alcohol and big heavy meals late at night. Give yourself a chance to relax before bed and avoid bright screens / electronic devices.

Fuelling our body – Eat a good source of fibre i.e. whole grains, legumes, and fruits such as apples, berries, citrus fruits and pears. Fibre stays in the stomach longer than other foods which means feeling full for longer. Eating carbs with a low GI (slow release) helps with blood sugar control, which means sustaining our energy levels in a more balanced way.

Balanced diet – A varied and healthy diet of protein and good fats is important - red meat, chicken and fish with some greens. Our snacks can be healthy like apples, avocados, bananas, fruit/nut mix and remember to stay hydrated and drink lots of water.

Road safety - Road conditions in regional WA don't have a good reputation as it is. It's important to remember the transport industry is an important part of country life and truckies are just trying to make a living, so respect needs to go both ways. Extra trucks are going to be in and out of receival points, farm gates and at crossroads during seeding/harvest and the holiday period. Give appropriate space and don't push your overtaking, be patient and don't drive tired.

Managing our relationships - We must remember that it is not your responsibility to make other people, including your spouse, happy. It is up to each person to create that for themselves. We do, however, play a significant role in whether others feel appreciated and respected, which is a good start for any relationship.

Our wellbeing is important and we must take a proactive approach to managing it. It would be great if we could all spend as much time as possible being happy, healthy and well. However life is full of certainty and uncertainty, each morning the sun comes up, and using the analogy of being stuck on an island, we never know what the tide may bring in, so look after yourself first! This will better enable us to then take care of those around us in our family, community group and/or workplace setting.

Don't let the price tags fool you: check the unit price

With many households looking for ways to stretch their grocery budget, it's more important than ever to know how to spot genuine value. And you might be surprised to learn that the cheapest item on the shelf isn't always the best deal.

One of the easiest ways to compare value is by checking the unit price. Usually displayed in smaller print on the shelf label, the unit price shows the cost per kilogram, litre, 100 grams or item. This makes it easier to compare products fairly, even when they come in different sizes or brands.

For example, you might be trying to choose between two boxes of cereal. One costs $4.50 and has a unit price of $1.13 per 100g. The larger box costs $6.00 and has a unit price of 86 cents per 100g. Even though the larger box costs more at the checkout, it's better value in the long run because you're paying less for the same amount of cereal.

The same applies to everyday items such as coffee, pasta, snacks, cleaning products and toiletries. Taking a moment to check the unit price could help you stretch your grocery budget further.

Unit pricing can also help you see through special offers and marketing claims. A product advertised as being on sale isn't always the cheapest option. Sometimes a similar product sitting right beside it has a lower unit price and provides better value for money.

Most supermarkets, large grocery stores and online grocery retailers are required to display unit prices in-store, online and in advertising for many common grocery items, including food, drinks, cleaning products and personal care items. The unit price should be clearly displayed near the selling price so shoppers can compare products quickly and easily.

However, not all businesses are required to provide unit pricing.

Smaller stores and retailers that don't sell a wide range of groceries may choose whether to display it. Some products, including clothing, furniture, appliances, hardware, toys and alcohol, are also exempt from unit pricing requirements.
It's also worth remembering that the same type of product may be sold in different sections of a supermarket at different prices. For example, nuts and dried fruit might be available in both the baking aisle and the health food section. Comparing unit prices can help you identify the better deal.

While you're shopping, it's also a good idea to keep your receipt and check that items have scanned at the advertised price. Businesses must display clear and accurate prices. If a product has more than one displayed price, or scans at a higher price than advertised, the retailer must either sell the item at the lowest displayed price or remove it from sale until the pricing is corrected.

When every dollar counts, knowing how to compare prices can help you shop smarter. Taking a few seconds to check the unit price could save you money every time you visit the supermarket.

For more information about unit pricing, visit the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC) website: www.accc.gov.au/consumers/groceries/grocery-unit-prices

RURAL AID

Ive had the pleasure of driving up to Carnarvon and back in the last two weeks and see that hay and harvest have begun in a lot of places. Stock work as preparation for summer such as selling stock at the market, crutching and more. In Carnarvon Planation growers are recovering after the cyclones and flooding, very busy re- planting crops as they are able to afford to do so. A lot of people are very busy, working long hours which equates to pressure on ourselves physically and mentally.

There are some areas of our state that are not having a bumper year, some are having a year of struggle so just a reminder to be aware when talking about how everyone is having a good year, some aren't.

Listen to your body and self. You are the expert on yourself and your feelings. Notice when you are becoming less patient sometimes even responding angrily or less able to concentrate. What is your body telling you. Make some time to take a small break, pause and enjoy that cup coffee or tea for 30 minutes. Stop for lunch and have a talk with your team and/or family for an hour. Ideally have a morning, afternoon or day off. A break and rest will reset yourself and you will be more personally productive.

Even when busy we can maintain what matters most to us in life. If we see our core value as spending time with family or taking time to speak with our children, we can still maintain these values. Technology does give us the ability to talk to each other, and most modern machines have hands free options for phones, also they have two-way radios. We can make time to talk to each other busy or not. We can stop, pick up our Children and sit them with us in the cab. We can stop and have something to eat together. Even in the paddock or shed.

Keep in touch with family and friends. We have the technology to continue to be there for each other. Especially if we hold a concern, a phone call is a good option. Every day is RUOK day.

Keeping in regular contact and keeping connected to others is also a very effective way to lessen our concerns. When we lessen our concerns, our resulting emotions are more easily controlled. A person who has regular connection and communication with those they value, love and respect is better able to cope. Sometimes when I see a person our counselling session is short because they have people who know them best talking to them. Valuing them.

So please look after yourself, each other and keep safe and connected this busy time of the year. Rural Aid counsellors are here and are happy to assist. Why? because you do matter and are important to a lot more people than you realise.

Wandering Lions

October brings the Wandering Fair and Lions are there for the provision of the famous egg and bacon breakfast burgers for the early arriving patrons setting up for the day. This has been a long standing tradition and makes a great start to Fair day.

Young Lions enjoying a breakfast burger after the business of suppling breakfast to workers and stall holders has been completed.

The ‘Cornish’ Lions packed up and ready to leave the Fair scene after the delivery of 70 breakfasts. The upgraded ‘new’ BBQ trailer has become an icon in Wandering community and Lion’s members are enjoying it’s efficiency and usability.

Lions can be ever present spending arduous moments filling IBCs with the cans and bottles. For this occasion 12 IBCs were collected by our members from the wonderful Campout patrons. IBCs are then transferred to the depot at Narrogin where the counting of several thousand cans and bottles takes place. The purpose build trailer is tasked with the transfer.
